PLAYING BALL sure gives a man an appetite! Rene Diaz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Diaz and a member of the Lions, the second top team in the Valley League, had been dreaming about that barbecued steak all through the 4th of July opening Major play-off between the Lions and Granite Rock of Carmel.

THE PONY COLT Invitational in Pacific Grove will give twelve 9 and 10-year-old Little Leaguers an opportunity to extend their ball-playing season and add additional honors to their scrapbooks. Members of the Valley team will be Chris Whipple, Reynold Tucker, Robert Diaz, Steve Weisner, Seth Ebstein, Jim Cooper, Guy Girado, Rene Erben, Steve Cummings, David Awamleh, Doug Ware and Grant Mizel.

Barracudas win 1st meet

The Carmel Barracudas Swim Team traveled last weekend to Gavilan College in Gilroy for the first meet of the Coast Valley Aquatics League season and returned victorious over the Gilroy Gators by a score of 582 to 432.

The 1976 CVAL champion Barracuda team, sparked by veterans Tuck Whitesides, Kent Nybakken, Sarah Hicks, Bobby Walthour, Maureen Falge, Art Strum, Ron Gayman and Bob Dunn, were strengthened by newcomers Erica Olin, Roger Salyer and Andy Ek-Udom Charaljavanaphet. Erica is a first-year swimmer from Carmel Valley, Roger from the Pearl Harbor Swim Club in Hawaii and Andy from Bangkok, Thailand, where he was a nationally ranked swimmer and represented his homeland in meets throughout Southeast Asia.

The Barracuda swimmers, having drawn blood in their first meet of the league season, are currently collecting pledges for their annual Swim-a-Thon to be held Sunday, July 10 at the Carmel High School and Carmel Valley Community pools. The goal of the Swim-a-Thon is 300 miles, or 21,120 lengths of the pool. Each swimmer is permitted to swim up to 200 lengths of the 25-yard pool in two hours. Radio station KRML will carry the results of the swimmers' efforts on July 10.

Day of baseball held on Fourth of July

Hundreds of Carmel Valley Little League families and friends were joined by families and friends from Carmel for the traditional day-long Fourth of July Celebration at the Paso Hondo Little League Park.

All day baseball began with the Minor League All Stars. The Light Blue team coached and managed by Ted Leidig and Gene Courtney won 24-19 over the Dark Blue team coached and managed by Scott Foster and Mike Awamleh.

CVLL president Jack Garrett was master of ceremonies during the presentation of awards preceding the afternoon double header. Trophies were presented to Major League winners, the Volunteers, and to the Lions team who placed second in the 1977 season. The Volunteers went down to a 12-0 defeat to Carmel's first-place Pine Inn team.

The Sal O'Campo Memorial Award for the Most Improved 12-year-old was made to Perry Belmont of the Falcon team. The Don McKenzie Memorial Award went to Tiger team member Ron Alexander. The trophy is a tribute to a boy who possesses qualities which best typify an all-around Little Leaguer.

The All-Stars named to play for the District Championship were: Brad Weisner, Paul Winslow, Ron Alexander, Steve Giraudo, Rusty Elsberry, Donald Dally, Ernie Weilleman, Mike Hildebrand, Joe Villareal, Dan Moore, Greg Jones, Hardwin Tucker, Donald Azcarte and Bobby Zoellin. Alternates are Chris Tugwell and Ron Scholink. Ron Parsons and Dick King will coach the All-Stars.

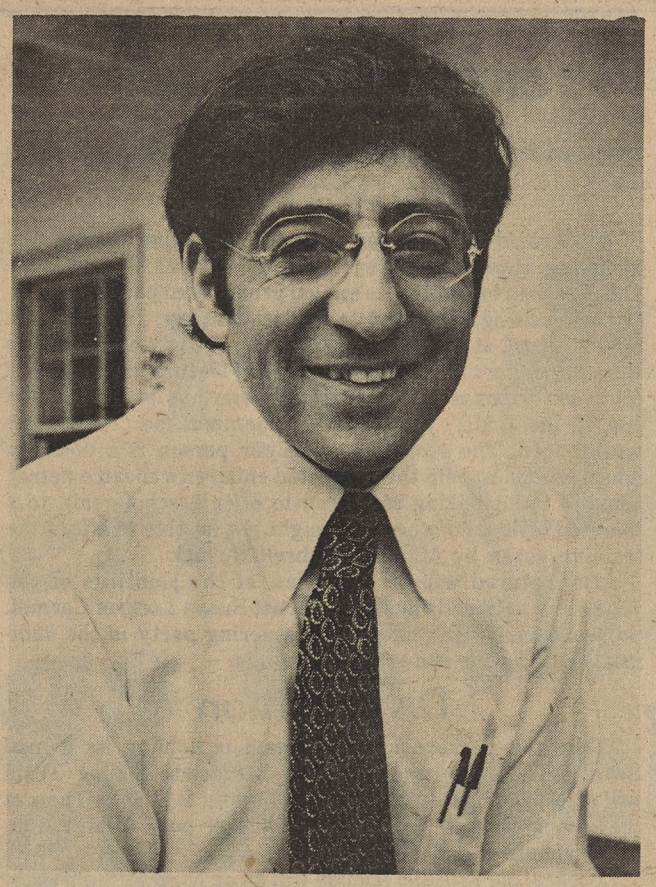
HE'S LEARNED to roll up the sleeves of his white shirt — presenting the image of a Congressman bearing down. Besides that, it keeps the sleeves from getting dirty.



THIS IS NOT THE WINNER of Carmel Valley's Dustin Hoffman look-alike contest. It's Congressman Leon Panetta still smiling after six months in office.

AS A FRESHMAN CONGRESSMAN, and now chairman of the New Member's Caucus of the House, Panetta has been asked to do just about everything.

An interview with our freshman Congressman

Panetta earns respect of colleagues, constituents

By BRUCE HOROVITZ

On Saturday morning at 9 — the very same time the Bugs Bunny/Roadrunner Cartoon Hour was waking many of us up — Congressman Leon Panetta was already roadrunning from his Carmel Valley home down to his Rodriguez Adobe office in central Monterey.

He had an appointment at 9. Another at 10. "Oh yes," Sylvia, his wife and manager reminded him, "and another at 10:30."

There's only so much a husband and wife team can remember. So if both of them forgot the keys to his Alvarado Street office, no matter. "We'll make it a real man-on-the-street interview," said Panetta, plopping down on the sunny side of a bench outside his office.

Panetta has been in office six months. It shows. He's learned to roll up the sleeves of his white shirt — presenting an image of a Congressman bearing down. Besides that, it keeps the sleeves from getting dirty. The knot on his paisley tie is a shade too tight for a Saturday morning. He only tugs at it once.

"Sure," confirms Carmel Valley's most logical entry for the Dustin Hoffman look-alike contest, "having worked as a Senate assistant, I had plenty of reservations about the House." But he ran anyway. Today, he sits comfortably in the 16th District's Congressional seat.

Six months on Capitol Hill has taught Panetta two lessons. First of all, he doesn't take himself too seriously ("one vote out of 435 isn't going to turn the world around"), he says. Secondly, he only grabs for what he can hold.

"The name of the game is not just simply reaching for the brass ring and grabbing it," explains Panetta from his Congressional merry-go-round, "but it's moving five steps closer and hoping you don't slip five feet back."

The only thing slipping, Panetta says, is the bloc of career politicians who once had a stranglehold on the House. Since 1970 there's been a 53 per cent turnover of elected representatives. Panetta himself is a fine example. He defeated incumbent Burt Talcott last November.

Many of these are younger members with ideals of reform and change. "That represents a certain power element — assuming they stick together," Panetta explains.

The U.S. Congressman is the first to admit that the democratic process isn't the most efficient in the world. "But that's O.K.," he contends, "because in exchange, everyone has his say."

Everyone also has his stay. If politics is a game of hide-and-seek, then there's no better place to get lost than up on the Hill.

"All temptations are to become isolated," admits Panetta. He says a Congressman can stay on the Hill every day, surrounded by his staff and deal with the issues only through his staff.

Kind of like a magnified Charlie's Angels — except everyone knows just who Charlie is.

"Everyone on the Hill knows you're a Congressman and treats you accordingly," complains Panetta, who insists that's something he has to fight. He wages battle by personally checking up on the various agencies and by staying in close contact with his constituency.

HIS CONGRESSIONAL CONCERNS are closely attuned with that same constituency. Panetta has set four basic priorities since taking office.

• WATER — Panetta is diving in, head first, and introduced a major bill last week to reorganize and streamline all federal offices dealing with water resources.

He hopes to establish an Office of Water Management that will pull together some 32 different water-related agencies that are still wading around.

• BUDGET — The federal budget is an even bigger mess than most of us think, according to Panetta. Panetta says neither he nor other congressmen have the time to effectively oversee the budget and at the same time pass new legislation.

"The budget process becomes nothing but a rubber stamp," says the man who has done his share of stamping. Based on pure economics, Panetta contends, the recent executive B-1 bomber decision is one the House should have made years ago.

Panetta is working on a budget proposal that may eventually extend the budget period to two years, instead of a year-to-year dilemna.

• FAMILY FARMERS — America will lose 40-50,000 family farmers in the next two years. More than one million acres of prime agricultural land is lost each year. Panetta, a member of the House agricultural subcommittee, says he wants to preserve the family farmer in our society.

There's been an invasion of non-farm corporate interests in the agriculture area. Panetta's interests are that the family farmers remain farmers. There will soon be House hearings on a feudalistic type proposal for the government to buy up millions of agricultural acres and rent them out to family farmers.

• FRESHMEN MEMBERS — Less than one week ago Panetta was elected chairman of the New Members Caucus of the House of Representatives.

This group works refreshingly hard on reform issues. They backed the ethics package. They support election reforms. They want to see the Korean investigation completed. They look with disfavor on all special interests.

Panetta looked with disfavor on the shenanigans during the Nixon administration and stepped down from his HEW position as the director of the Office for Civil Rights.

•

BUT HE STILL hangs around a sometimes immoral Congress. How come?

"There is room to contend with these problems in Congress. Not only is the support there from some of the congressman, but from much of the public as well," Panetta explains.

He began to taste these problems during his first ten days in office. Representatives from every special interest group under the sun and moon waltzed into his office bearing a song, a dance and a gift.

There were radios. Tickets to all kinds of productions. Even two box seats for the season at the race track. That's when he set a $10 limit on all gifts. The result has been 99 per cent of all gifts are returned.

Still, there are dues to pay to remain a member in good standing of what Panetta refers to as the "Washington Club." He cites the recent pay raise vote as a perfect example.

There was pressure from all sides of Congress for the raise. A few congressmen cried on his shoulder. They told him they had kids in college, condominiums and car payments. Panetta held his ground and voted against the raise.

"The only way to protect both my conscience and my relations with these men is to be firm when acting on my conscience. At least I'll have earned their respect," says Panetta.

Meanwhile, he's earning the respect of his constituency by working hard on legislation that will greatly affect this area. Besides the drought assistance package and water bill ("Can you believe we still water golf courses with Cal-Am water?" he asks), the family farm bill will directly affect the Peninsula.

Then there's the environment. He's working on three Parks and Wilderness proposals. One would extend the Ventana Wilderness along the coast. Another would safeguard the Lopez Canyon Wilderness near San Luis Obispo. A third would include some kind of federal involvement along the Big Sur coast.

While Fort Ord is cutting back on its doctors, Panetta is concerned about military retirees in the area. He wants to see either an increase in medical staff there or an increase in insurance coverage.

A decrease, however, is in order for President Carter's priority list, Panetta says. He calls Carter sincere, capable and compassionate, but warns, "There's a danger in his not really focusing on what his priorities really are for this country."

A car whisks by and honks. The driver waves. The Congressman waves back. It all looks so easy. A Democratic Congressman in a Democratic Congress with a Democratic President.

"I'm not locked in by any means," insists Panetta, squinting from where the sun glints off his wire-rim spectacles. "Just look at the problems between Congress and the President," he offers.

The Democrat contends he wants a stronger two-party system. He thinks the Republicans aren't going after a broad enough cross-section.

Ooops! Time's up. He's already late for his 9:30 appointment. Time is this Congressman's days. Even his weeks. He'll leave here Sunday evening at 8 and arrive in Washington at 6 a.m. Monday. Three Fridays a month he'll depart Washington on the 5:45 flight to revisit the people who elected him.

How does he feel about the alliterative sound of President Panetta? "The secret of this business is playing it day-to-day," he grins. "Retaining some independence is the most important thing a Congressman can do."

He says he wouldn't remain in the House for more than ten or 12 years, if that long. "There should be no career positions in Congress," he says. "That's not what our forefathers intended."

As a freshman Congressman, Leon Panetta has been asked to do just about everything, with the possible exception of making it rain.

His ten o'clock appointment is with a family farmer. Now there will be no exceptions.

Valleyite elected chairman of House Freshmen

Congressman Leon Panetta of Carmel Valley has been elected chairman of the New Members Caucus of the House of Representatives. He succeeds Ohio Representative Donald Pease, whose six-month term ended June 30.

"The freshman members of this Congress stood in almost unanimous support of the new ethics package that passed the House in February, and we were instrumental in receiving some of the key questions at that time on the side of public integrity," said Panetta. "As chairman of the Reform Committee of the New Members Caucus, I am proud of my part in that effort and will continue this emphasis as chairman of the full caucus."

In January, Panetta led freshman efforts to deny Representative Robert Sikes a subcommittee chairmanship and to force the full House to vote on the recent Congressional pay raise.

Panetta said he felt the 47-member freshman coalition would continue to be an effective force in the 95th Congress. "While no one could presume to speak for all House freshmen on all issues," he said, "there are areas where our interests clearly coincide and where important achievements can be made if we work together."

The Valleyite had previously served as vice chairman of the New Members Caucus.

Garden party

What could be more fun than a day of wine tasting and sampling absolutely superb hors d'oeuvres? That is what C.E.T. offers instead of its annual green room party.

This exciting event will take place Sunday, July 10, from 2:30 to 7 p.m. at the fabulous old home of Judy Grant at San Lucas and Portola in Carmel. It will feature the wines of Mirassou Vineyards and everyone who has ever attended one of the C.E.T. parties will remember the "out of the world" food. The cost of only $5 per person is a donation which will go to help the respected children's theatre defray some of its operating costs and to offer a scholarship to a talented child who otherwise might not be able to afford the training given by Marcia Gambrell Hovack.

Also featured will be a preview of the paintings of the young and nationally acclaimed artist Susan Long of Carmel. So, come early, stay late, enjoy a spring party in the summer. Hope for the sun and pray for rain.

Dive-A-Thon

While the Barracuda Swim Team is holding its annual Swim-A-Thon this weekend, the Barracuda Diving Team will also participate in the fund-raiser in a Dive-A-Thon at the diving well at Carmel High School pool from 6 a.m. Sunday until 6 a.m. Monday.

Coaches, parents and friends will be on hand to "help them make it through the night" and a half-way mark celebration is scheduled for midnight.

Team members will collect pledges for the diving marathon so please give generously when they come to your door. Spectators are of course welcome any time during the 24-hour period, so drop by the pool with a word of encouragement for the team.

The Barracuda divers competed in the Kiwanis Invitational AAU Diving Meet last weekend in San Mateo.

Clyde Divine, Olympic coach for the 1972-76 Olympics, was meet director and many of his divers were in competition. The Carmel-Carmel Valley divers were accompanied by their coaches, Scott Rose, Karen Limov and Anita Campbell, who listed the following results: girls 11-12: Laura Horan, 8th; girls 13-14: Theresa DeAmaral, 12th; Gretchen Segrist, 11th; Anna Allioti, 10th; Maria Allioti, 7th; and Kathy Lockwood, 9th; boys 15-16: Rich Gistelli, 3rd.

THE DON McKENZIE Memorial Award was established several years ago to honor a player selected first to represent his teammates and then by the coaches and managers as a young man who plays a fine game of ball, but is also a leader instilling hustle in the other players; is courteous to other coaches, managers and umpires; and a good sport both on and off the field. Ron Alexander, a member of the Tigers and the son of Joyce and Ron Sr., was the popular choice for the 1977 McKenzie trophy.

Mid-Valley Pharmacy, purchased by Ricigliano, reopens

Tony Ricigliano, a pharmacist for the last four years at Harp's Drugs in Salinas, has purchased and re-opened the Mid-Valley Pharmacy next to Safeway in the Mid-Valley Shopping Center. The location was formerly Steinmetz Pharmacy.

Mid-Valley Pharmacy is fully stocked with merchandise and will soon carry small appliances, citizen band radios, gifts and household items.

Ricigliano, a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania School of Pharmacy, is offering a special discount on prescription prices to senior citizens who register with him.

He will respond to customer needs by ordering anything he does not have in stock that is a normal drug store item. Veterinary supplies may also line the shelves of Mid-Valley Pharmacy soon.

Ricigliano purchased the drug store from Paul Porter of Mid-Valley Associates, owner of the Mid-Valley Shopping Center. The pharmacy closed 10 months ago. Ricigliano says he will "operate the store with sensitivity and responsiveness to community needs and with merchandising and service that provide convenience to customers."

VALLEYITES NAMED TO CAL POLY DEAN'S LIST

Two Carmel Valley students were named to the Dean's List for the 1977 Spring Quarter at California Polytechnic State University, San Luis Obispo. They received certificates of academic achievement.

To be named to the Dean's List, a student must attain grades that place him in the top 15 per cent of the students in his respective school and must be enrolled in a study program of 12 or more units for the quarter.

Valleyites honored are Carolyn K. Beach, a senior majoring in liberal science and Robert J. Poulos, a senior majoring in computer science.

Hike, swim on calendar for Sierra Club

A hike to Vicente Flat Camp and a hike/swim in Big Sur Gorge are on the outing calendar of the local Ventana Chapter of the Sierra Club. Members of other chapters and interested nonmembers are welcome to join Sierra Club activities.

Outstanding views of the Big Sur coast are promised as a reward for the moderate 10-mile hike with a 1500-foot elevation gain to Vicente Flat Camp, Saturday, July 9. Participants should bring water and lunch.

Meet behind Brinton's in Carmel Rancho Shopping Center, Highway 1 and Rio Rd., at 8 a.m. for the 55-mile drive to the Kirk Creek trail head. For more information, phone leaders John Doering, Salinas 1-422-2541, or Larry Lapidus, Salinas 1-422-5529.

Good swimmers and scramblers are invited to join an eight-mile hike up the Big Sur Gorge trail to Ventana camp and back along the river to Big Sur Park, Sunday, July 10. Participants must wear boots, woolen pants and a shirt or sweater to keep warm. No sneakers or bathing suits will be allowed, and hikers should bring lunch and a change of clothes in a waterproof bag.

Meet at Brinton's at 8 a.m. Phone leader Art Beniot, 375-5055, to confirm because the trip will be canceled if Los Padres is closed due to fire danger.

Part of Molera Park now closed, fire danger high

Part of Andrew Molera State Park in Big Sur has been closed because of high fire danger, State Parks and Recreation Director Herbert Rhodes announced today.

All park land west of State Highway 1 and south of the Big Sur River is closed to public use. The area will remain closed as long as the fire danger remains high.

Rhodes noted that further closures of portions of state parks in the Big Sur area may be expected in the near future.

Other closures of state park areas are likely because of this second successive dry year. "The fire danger is much higher than usual in most state park units again this summer," Rhodes said, "and all park users should exercise extreme caution in use of campfires, cooking stoves, lanterns, cigarettes and any other devices that use fire or may cause electric sparks."

Hungarian dogs to be shown in Carmel Valley

A Hungarian dog show judge, Dr. Ernoe Kubinsky of Budapest, will judge Vizslas and all other native Hungarian dog breeds at a Hungarian Breeds Family Day and AKC Sanctioned "B" Match, Saturday, July 9 at Carmel Middle School. The event is sponsored by the Lone Cypress Vizsla Club of the Monterey Peninsula.

Under American Kennel Club regulations, only one breed may be exhibited at a Sanctioned "B" Match. But match chairman May Carpenter is so excited at the prospect of having a native-born Hungarian judge in the area, she has invited owners of other Hungarian pure breeds to be examined and critiqued by Dr. Kubinsky after the match.

Match judging will begin at 10 a.m., with Vizsla entries accepted from 9 a.m. Coffee and doughnuts will be served by the Lone Cypress Vizsla Club.

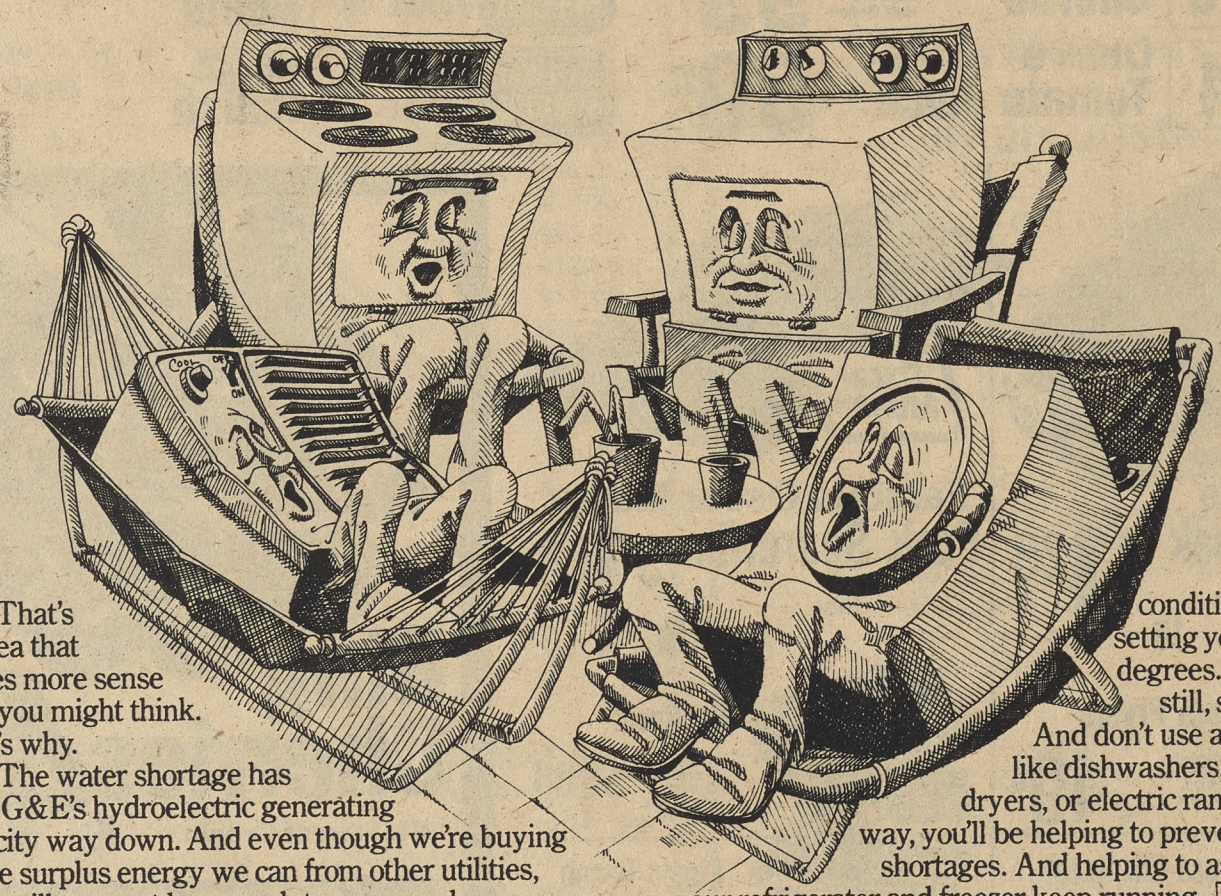
Rules for entering the match are that dogs be judged naturally, not "stacked" and that they be purebred but not necessarily AKC registered. Professional handlers may enter and handle their own dogs. Classes will be divided by sex and age for 3-6 months, 6-9 months, 9-12 months and over 12 months. Ribbons and trophies will be awarded.

At the conclusion of Vizsla judging, the club will host a potluck picnic lunch. After lunch, Dr. Kubinsky will examine and critique any other Hungarian breeds; there will be a fee for this judging.

The Vizsla is a hunting breed which somewhat resembles the Weimariner. It is noted for its short, smooth, russet-red coat. Other Hungarian breeds include the Puli and Komondor, both sheep herding breeds.

Spectators are welcome. Carmel Middle School is on Carmel Valley Rd. approximately one mile east of Highway 1.

THIS SUMMER, WHY NOT LET YOUR ELECTRIC APPLIANCES TAKE HOT AFTERNOONS OFF?



That's an idea that makes more sense than you might think. Here's why.

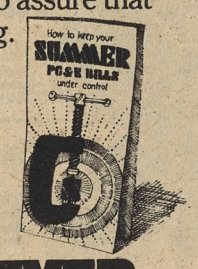
The water shortage has cut PG&E's hydroelectric generating capacity way down. And even though we're buying all the surplus energy we can from other utilities, there still may not be enough to go around.

The worst time is during hot summer afternoons, when the use of electricity is greatest. And the chances of power shortages are greatest.

But there's something you can do about it. During those hot summer afternoons, cut down on your use of electricity. As much as possible. Especially on air conditioners. Try setting yours at 82 degrees. Or better still, shut it off.

And don't use appliances like dishwashers, washers, dryers, or electric ranges. That way, you'll be helping to prevent power shortages. And helping to assure that your refrigerator and freezer keep running.

If you'd like a lot of suggestions on saving energy... and money, we've prepared a booklet called, "How To Keep Your Summer PG&E Bills Under Control." Get a copy at your local PG&E office. It's free.



SAVING ENERGY IS MORE IMPORTANT THAN EVER.

"Oh," said Fr. Junipero Serra. "I see a lone Indian. We'll name this place Ohlone. Let's ask him which trail leads to Carmel."

"Ugh," replied the lone Indian. "Follow trail over ridge of big pines past white rock until you come to valley of small tule reeds. You can name that Carmel Valley."

Which came first? The trails or the people who used them? Give yourself ten points and a pat on the back for a right answer.

The trails came first. That's right, sweetie. The trails were mostly created by animals following the line of least resistance across our mountainous country. Rabbit runs. Deer trails. Mountain lions who each night travel another segment of a fifty-mile path around "their" territory.

Then came the Indians who tracked animals for food or fur. The Indians who succeeded in getting animal furs had something to trade with the tribe down the river. Archaeologists have found New Mexico obsidian tools in California and abalone ornaments in New Mexico.

In 1770 came Fr. Junipero Serra and after him came generations of settlers, cowboys, fur trappers, do-gooders and no-goodniks, miners, minors and pioneering hippies. They're still here today; that's our modern California.

Wonderfully enough, the trails are largely still here, too. Like so much of California and especially Monterey County, the presence of the past endures. During last year's Bicentennial celebration 200 costumed "settlers" recreated the De Anza trek to Monterey in 1776. They were able to follow almost exactly in the footsteps of the first Spanish colonists.

In just the last generation however, trails have begun to be closed off at an alarming rate. It's called development. It's called urbanization. A man's house is his castle and so is his poison oak-covered riverbank.

So often, the first thing a newcomer does is to build a fence across the 1000-year-old trail. He may have little sense of his own roots and even less sense of the continuity of land. "History? What's that got to do with me?" he asks.

In 1969 on recommendation of the California Riding and Hiking Trails Advisory Committee, the Monterey County Board of Supervisors appointed a Recreation Trails Coordinating Committee. This committee drafted a report about trails which included a priority list for creating public title to them and suggestions as to how to obtain them. The report was adopted in 1971 as the Trails Element of the Monterey County General Plan. Copies are available from the County Planning Department and in public libraries. The trails committee disbanded on completion of its task.

Emphasis was placed on preserving the major long-distance trails. Along with other coastal counties, Monterey County is creating a coastal trail that will stretch the length of California.

The trail plan is particularly important for Carmel Valley. It contains more trails than any other area of the county — a grand total of two with connections between them. The Carmel River Trail will be part of the California Coast Trail. It comes from the south through the Ventana Wilderness Area and enters the Carmel Valley near Los Padres Reservoir. It follows the river to the ocean where the northbound hiker or horseback rider then has to find his own way to Marina before picking up the Coastal Trail headed for Santa Cruz County.

An alternative route is indicated along the hilltops on the north side of Carmel Valley. Via this trail, which is supposed to have several connections to the Carmel River Trail, the northbound foot traveler can detour via Fort Ord and suburban Salinas to the northern section of the Coastal Trail.

Skimpy as the Trails Element is, it's all we've got. The county has actually acquired some pieces of it since 1971.

The Trails Element is implemented by requiring people who are subdividing land to dedicate an easement. Major subdivisions come before the County Planning Commission; minor subdivisions — where a parcel of land is being divided into four or fewer pieces — come before the Minor Subdivision Committee.

In either case, if the land to be subdivided lies along the route of one of the trails shown in the Trails Element, a trail easement is required as a condition of subdivision. Since 1971, parcels along the Carmel River Trail have been subdivided and have therefore dedicated trail easements.

Quilting for beginners to be presented Sat.

Demonstrations for beginners in the art of quilting will be presented by Giny McGovern Saturday-Sunday, July 9-10 at Countrywide Crafts in the Barnyard, Highway 1 and Rio Rd., Carmel. Hours are 10 a.m.-5 p.m. Saturday and noon-4 p.m. Sunday.

A native of California, Mrs. McGovern is currently on the staff of the Pennsylvania Farm Museum in Lancaster, Pa. She spins flax and wool, does needlewoork, hooks rugs and, during Pennsylvania's bicentennial celebration, became famous for her reproductions of Colonial flags.

She creates costumes for the Fulton Opera House in Lancaster, makes "band boxes," used in Colonial times to store linen neck bands and makes many quilts from authentic early American patterns.

All interested persons are invited to attend the free demonstrations.

For additional information, phone Countrywide Crafts, 624-6511.

Northern California Savings B-B-Q

Dinner under the "Big Top" at the opening celebration of the Carmel Rancho Branch of Northern California Savings and Loan will long be remembered for that magical meld of hosts, guests, food and entertainment that assures the success of a party.

The hosts, headed by Bob Stanfield, branch manager, included 200 employees from 40 other branches. The guests — more than 1000 of them — were old timers and newcomers, delightfully surprised with the festivities in an enormous circus tent in a parking lot on Rancho Boulevard.

The food, superbly prepared by the Santa Maria Barbecuers with Chef Ike Simas in charge, included steaks cooked over Santa Maria Valley Red Oak embers and all the trimmings.

The entertainment, with Fred Stanley serving as master of ceremonies, included the CUSD Community Band under the direction of Henry Avila; the Cypressaires, directed by Ralph Schroeder; Alan Gilbert of the Carmel Barnyard Theatre; Dr. Antoine Divago, the Arabian Knights and Belly Dancers; and Jose de Cordoba of Hidden Valley Opera.

Swim-A-Thon

The Carmel Barracuda Swim Team, sponsored by the Carmel Unified School District Recreation Department, will conduct their annual fund raising Swim-A-Thon on Sunday at the Carmel High School and Carmel Valley Community Center pools. Barracudas, coaches and parents will have two hours to swim up to 200 lengths of the pool — nearly three miles — for your pledge of any amount per length.

Proceeds will be used toward an expanded program of AAU age-group swimming, water polo, adult swimming and the purchase of new equipment, including an electronic timer.

For additional information, phone Barracuda coach Rich Holine, 659-2722.
